

Nature Matters

My story of gratitude for beautiful natural places.

Story and pictures by James Gordon.

I am always so grateful for beautiful natural places...

they make me feel so lucky...

they lift me up...

they sometimes stop me in my tracks...

they are so nice to share...

they calm me...

they make me consider my effect on the environment...

they are so healthy for you...

they often make me curious...

they help me reflect on what's important in life...

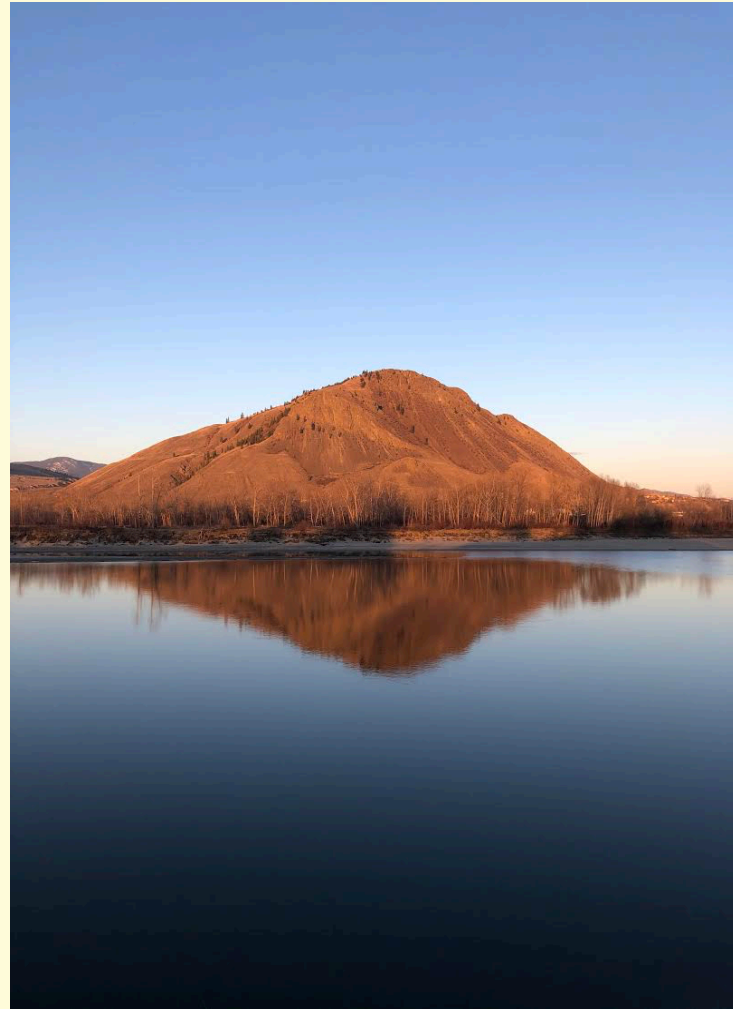

they show me beauty...

they make me want to protect them...

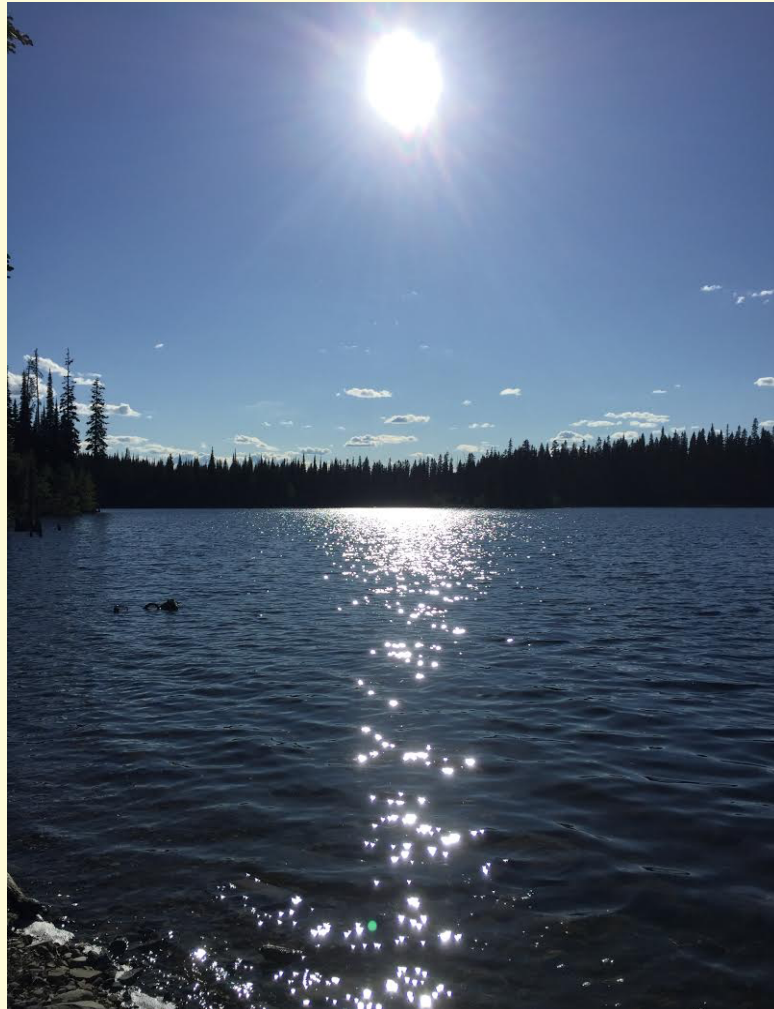

they slow me down...

they often take my breath away...

they make me want to come back for more...
